The Ledger Delivers the Goods

Mr. Raleigh H. Ryan of Flemingsburg, while in the city several days ago, lost a ring, which was found by Mr. W. Deming of Flemingsburg, who saw the "ad" in THE PUBLIC LEDGER, and returned the ring to its owner. The ring was invaluable as a keepsake, and Mr. Ryan is loud in his praise of THE LEDGER and Mr. Deming in returning the ring. The "ad" was inserted at the instigation of Miss Anna Daugherty, the popular Day Clerk at the Central Hotel.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. P. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

AN feminine writer gives her opinion and women in the following original

The truth is, girls are so continually and lastingly warned against the male sex to that they look upon most men as monsters clever villains. Nothing could be more absurd or harmful philosophy of life. Men are just as good as women—only a woman when she is not good sinks to the bottom like a rock, and we see nothing more of her, while bad men are like perpetually floating corks—you can't get rid of them.

The Court of Appeals has decided that no money raised by a school tax levy can be expended in hauling the children to school. The decision was rendered in a case appealed from Mason county involving the transportation of pupils of the Mayslick school. The original suit was brought by some twenty taxpayers of Mayslick who objected to the wagon system.

The Appellate Court says the present laws do not authorize the expenditure of money raised for school purposes, in the buying of wagons. The opinion goes on to say: "We do not hold that the Legislature may not provide for the levying of a tax for this purpose; we only hold that it has not done so." This dispels the doubt that has befogged on. It also gives opportunity for enactment of a law which will permit the transportation of pupils. The decision is important and it is fortunate that it comes at a time when the Legislature is in session and will promptly attend to the defect.

Kentucky has made a start in school consolidation and the experiments that have been tried have been uniformly favorable. The best example of successful consolidation in the State is presented by the school at Mayslick, at which place the case just decided by the high Court had its beginning. There are several other districts in the State where the transportation system has been adopted, the cost of hauling the pupils being paid out of the school tax funds. There is great need of the consolidation of weak schools, but this, of course, would be impracticable in the absence of any provision for bringing the children to the schoolhouse. The deficiency can be remedied at the present session of the General Assembly and doubtless will be, as the emergency demands remedial legislation.

"patent-medicine" exploiters, who have made their millions from the gullible sick, and who have now received the order of knighthood. The occasion seems one that is pregnant with opportunities for sarcastic comment, at the expense of royalty and monarchical governments. But then we unwillingly remember that genial personage whose relationship to the Duffy's Malt Whisky outfit and the canning company that sold short-weight products has often been the subject of comment—the gentleman whom a free people elected to the second highest office it has to give, namely the vice-presidency of the United States. After which, it seems, the less said the better.

"Did you say the pig would be there, your reverence?"
"To be sure, I did."
"Well, then, your reverence. I'd say Mrs. Maloney, there's your pig."

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrapper. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women.

This is what Mrs. GENNETT E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135. I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good. I hope your testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every single or married ought to know.

Worldly Success

Much Depends on Ideas of Life's Purpose

By G. BRABBIT

WHETHER a man's life in this world is successful or not depends on the idea which is held of the purpose for which life is given. If we believe that death ends all, the conclusion may be not unreasonably reached that the successful life is one into which are crowded the greatest number of material blessings and the least amount of earthly discomfort. But if, on the other hand, we are convinced that our brief stay in this mundane sphere of existence was designed to be a preparation for an endless hereafter, then that is the successful life in which such preparation is most adequately made. The question is therefore, primarily, the great and abiding one of man's immortality.

But, apart from this point, we may well ask ourselves what kind of life is the happiest for men, for that life is surely the most successful which is the most truly happy. And we have no right to assume that the conditions of happiness are different in this world and in the other. Rather ought we to say that they must be the same for human beings everywhere.

Happiness may be defined as the state of mind which is realized by living according to divine order. That order consists in obedience to God's commandments, chief among which are those which prescribe love to the Lord and love to the neighbor. These are, indeed, the briefest summary of man's duty. They cannot be put in practice except by acts of usefulness and kindness. Hence it follows that true happiness is experienced only in unselfish service for others.

Wisdom, Religion And Health Are Adjusted

By FRANK CRANE

Mark the boy's splendid physique, his emphatic spirits and radiating health. Ask him where he got these. He doesn't know. They just come. Now, if he had quit playing and gone in pursuit of health he would have missed it.

Only sickly folks are everlastingly seeking health. Beans and side meat and forgetfulness make better blood and bones than predigested food and special diets and care.

Dr. Holmes spoke of how ideas come to one, as if a bullet had struck one, shot out of the nowhere. The highest form of intellectual product, the kind that smacks of genius, the sort of writing and painting or music that haunts men, emerges similarly out of the infinite and finds the producer. It is the "divine afflatus," an ounce of it is worth a ton of study.

In character, likewise, those souls are the noblest who are not "trying" to be noble; and the purest are not they who struggle against impurity.

The finest moral texture is woven by those souls who, like the lilies of the field, "toil not, neither do they spin."

They have that which is better than effort; they are adjusted.

The lives of our citizens are too valuable to risk in the hands of a lot of so-called hunters who know nothing of firearms.

The gentleman who suggested red jackets will doubtless agree with me that restriction of the license and not bright clothes will prove the solution of the hunting problem.

The monument will consist of a doric column 320 feet high with a light and spectators' gallery at the top. The structure will stand on a plaza at each end of which will be a building, one as an emblem of the one hundred years of peace between United States and England, while the other will be used as a historical museum. There will be a life saving station and a wireless telegraph station in connection with the memorial. The structure, when completed, is estimated to cost $600,000 and will be dedicated September 10th, 1913.

Found a Friend in Lincoln

WHEN coming from the reunion banquet of the One Hundred and Thirty-seventh Ohio volunteer infantry, which took place at the Grant hotel, Louis P. Bentley of Ludlow, Ky., after hearing eulogies of the war heroes, and especially of Abraham Lincoln, remarked to Alexander Hill, Sr.: "You did not know that for some months I was once a member of Abraham Lincoln's family, did you?"

"No, how did that happen?" asked Mr. Hill eagerly.

Then in a burst of patriotic pride and confidence, Mr. Bentley told the story which he has always kept to himself and family from an undue sense of modesty, which explains why Miss Ida Tarbell did not find him in writing her book, "He Knew Lincoln."

"It was in 1858," said Mr. Bentley, the other day, repeating his story, "and I was a boy of 18 who had learned the printing business and was staying in Decatur, Ill., then a town of about 3,000 inhabitants, and could not find work. I was boarding at the Ogelsby house, the only hotel in town, and had paid my last $5 for board and was feeling about as blue as any one can feel under those circumstances. Stephen A. Douglas, then the Democratic senator from Illinois, was a candidate for re-election and his opponent, a young lawyer named Lincoln from Springfield, and he were having a series of five addresses, which have since become so famous. Both parties were in the hotel at that time to hold a debate that night, and Douglas, the man of the hour, was upstairs in the hotel parlor with a bottle of whisky, a box of cigars and surrounded by admiring friends who came to call upon him.

"There was great excitement in the town, and it centered in the hotel, but I was feeling too blue to care about it and sat in the office downstairs, not caring to speak to any one. A tall raw-boned man sat near me as much unnoticed as myself, all hunched up in his chair, whittling a little piece of wood.

"Do you belong here?" he asked.

"No," I replied, "you been here?"

"About a year."

"What are you doing?"

"Nothing."

"That is not a good thing for a young man of your age to do. Can you find work?"

"No," I replied, feeling very rebellious against fate.

"What do you do when you are working? Have you a trade?"

"Yes; I am a printer," I answered, wishing this man would stop his questions.

"Well, young man," he said kindly, "I have an interest in a newspaper in Springfield, and if you come back with me tomorrow I will see if the foreman of the printing room cannot give you a job. Will you come?"

"I do not know, I will see," I answered feeling more kindly toward this curious gentleman.

"Don't you want a job?" he asked quickly.

"Yes, I do," I answered, but I did not tell him the reason for my not accepting his offer. I had no means to go to Springfield, sixty miles away. It was the first time that I was broke and I hated to own it.

"He said nothing more, and that night after the debate, where there were as many as a half million people present in proportion to the size of the town, I came face to face with him again in the hotel office.

"Well, young man," he said, "are you going with me?"

"Then I confessed the reason why I could not.

"I knew then that my friend was Abraham Lincoln, the young Republican candidate for senator, who had debated with Stephen A. Douglas.

"It was near midnight and the steamboat was due to leave in a short time.

"You come with me, anyhow," said Mr. Lincoln, "and I will take care of you."

"I did not require much urging, and went to my room to collect my small belongings and joined his party.

"We arrived in Springfield the next morning and Mr. Lincoln took me to his home, giving me the only vacant room in his house, and I ate breakfast with the family. After that he took me to his law office and had a talk with his partner, Mr. Herndon; then we went to the printing office of the Illinois State Register, the paper in which he had an interest, and we had a talk with the foreman. The latter, after asking me to write something, said he was sorry, he saw I knew the work, but there was no position that he could give me at present, promising me, however, the first chance of work. At that my spirits, which had risen, dropped down again to a still lower ebb, until my benefactor said:

"Now, I am going to be away a great deal on this campaign and Mr. Herndon will be very busy, so how would you like to stay in the office and answer the questions of visitors for $4 a week?" That was before the days of stenographers.

"I did not think there was so much money in the world, so I accepted the offer gladly and remained a resident of the Lincoln household for nine weeks. Mrs. Lincoln's aunt was go-

GETTING ON THE BAND WAGON.

GOOD LIVER REMEDY FREE

When you suffer from any form of indigestion it is always well to take something for the liver, as usually the trouble lies there. If you are bilious, have a bloated feeling after eating, if you belch, if your skin is yellowish you may be sure it is liver trouble.

What you need is something to stir up the liver, to arouse the gastric juices so that they will aid in the digestion of your food. A very good remedy for this, and one highly recommended by those who have used it, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. But if you have any doubt about its merits, and would prefer to try it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly send you a free sample bottle.

Thousands of people first learned of this remarkable cure for stomach, liver and bowel troubles through a free sample. Mrs. Frank Lilly of Plainview, Ill., sent for one and it cured her and she is open in saying that she will never take pills or strong cathartics again, as Syrup Pepsin acts so mildly. Mr. W. L. Bryant, the Postmaster at Sardis, Tenn., says he will never be without it again. No sick person can afford to ignore a remedy so highly endorsed as this. It is good for all the family from infancy to old age, because it is mild, free from gripping and yet promptly effective. Furthermore, results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

For the free sample address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

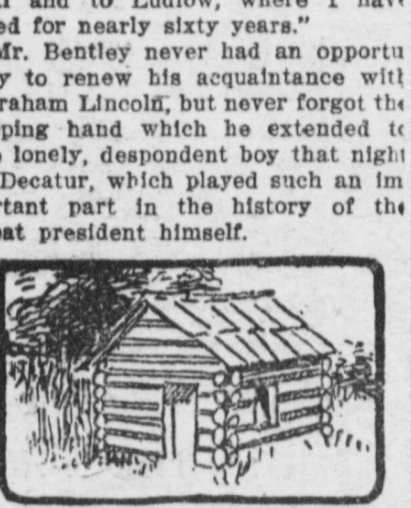

ing to make them a visit and that as I had the only vacant room in the house he would make arrangements for me to stay with a lady across the street, who had two young men boarding with her, if I did not care.

could not object and moved, and I suppose Mr. Lincoln paid my board all the time I was there as well as my salary, for I know I did not pay any.

Then one day the foreman sent for me to work on a brief, and when I was finished, to my great delight, paid me full journeyman's wages. Altogether I remained in Springfield four months, going from there to St. Louis, where I went into a printing office; but I soon returned to Cincinnati and to Ludlow, where I have lived for nearly sixty years."

Mr. Bentley never had an opportunity to renew his acquaintance with Abraham Lincoln, but never forgot the helping hand which he extended to the lonely, despondent boy that night in Decatur, which played such an important part in the history of the great president himself.

Lincoln in His Prime

WAS READY WITH AN ANSWER

How Lincoln's Ingenious Mind Framed Effective Reply to Objections Against Emancipation.

PERHAPS no story of Lincoln's was told under graver conditions and with more emphatic application than that which closed the famous interview on the steamer River Queen, at Hampton Roads, between Mr. Lincoln, Secretary Seward and the peace commission of the Confederacy. The discussion had reached its kernel, slavery.

The southern argument, in all its impressive force, was brought forward. If the south were to consent to a peace on the basis of emancipation of the slaves, the entire structure of southern society would be plunged into irremediable ruin. No work would be done, nothing would be cultivated; whites and blacks alike must starve, for the freed slaves, accustomed to overseers, would undoubtedly abstain wholly from labor.

The president waited for Seward to make some effective rejoinder. But the experienced statesman could find no cogent reply. At length, Lincoln framed the answer, in a story culminating in a phrase that gave common currency to a colloquialism, colored among the log cabins of negroes and poor whites.

"Gentlemen," addressing the commissioners, "your statement of the conditions reminds me of a man out in Illinois, by the name of Case, who undertook to raise a very large herd of hogs. But as they grew, it became too big a job to feed them. Finally he planted an immense field in potatoes; and as soon as the potatoes were fairly grown, turned the whole herd into the field. The hogs did sketched from a photograph of Lincoln at about 40. Note the keen, shrewd, though kindly expression of his eyes and mouth, and his fearless directness.

Humorous Even in Discomfort.

"When Lincoln was on circuit in his law days," said a Chicago veteran to the Pittsburg Gazette-Times, "he used to put up at some pretty bad taverns—averns where, big as he was, by Crinns, he and the judges and the lawyers would have to sleep two and three in a bed. And what beds they were! Once, after a wretched night, Lincoln got up and walked to a notice on the wall that said, 'No smoking in the bedrooms.' He chuckled grimly. Then he took a pencil from his pocket and scribbled beneath the notice: 'The fleas don't like it.'"

TOBACCO GROWERS

Hold Big Meeting Here Yesterday
—Not Much Resulted
From the Pow.Wow

Yesterday was a lively day in tobacco affairs in Maysville as in addition to the auction at the three houses, the big meeting of Burley tobacco growers held at the Court-house, drew in all about one thousand tobacco men to Maysville.

Everybody attending the tobacco sales in the morning, including President Clarence Lebus, Vice President Ferguson and Fred T. Jallard of Lexington, Publicity Agent for the Farley Society. Mr. Lebus scored the loose leaf method in his speech after dinner at the Court-house and he evidently wants the So-control the situation, which is but he is "untiring in his work and tows for his company."

ing yesterday afternoon was large, at least 600 tobacco growers and from Mason and adjoining counties, and the Circuit Court room to the doors near an exposition of the "Ten-Year Pooling Plan" as outlined by Lebus and Ferguson. Mr. Ferguson opened with an hour's talk and made an impassioned appeal to the growers to join in the pool. He is an earnest and effective talker and his hearers gave him respectful attention.

President Lebus followed Mr. Ferguson and delivered one of the most interesting and speeches ever heard in the tobacco campaign. There were so many said by the millionaire Burley, taken as a whole it was a rhetorical classic.

are the methods used by Mr. notwithstanding the sometimes charged to him, his remarks yesterday unpublished, were sledge-hammers for every tobacco growers in the land.

He said in closing that the situation resolved itself into this: That it is up to the growers to join the pool by March 1st, or the farmers' movement would go to the bow-wows. He said he would give the farmers until March 1st to join the pool and if it wasn't a go then he would be in another pool, but it wouldn't be "the people's pool."

Mr. Lebus invited any one to address the meeting and state his opinion, but no one came forward and the crowd dispersed or, but apparently in a body opposed to the ten-year plan.

It is said that after the meeting farmers to the number of a dozen signed the agreement. Chairman R. T. Watson of the Mason County Board of Control, who called the meeting to order was left to distribute the contract books and see that canvassers visit every precinct in the county and picture more signatures.

A MEASURE OF MERIT

MAYSVILLE CITIZENS SHOULD WEIGH WELL THIS EVIDENCE

Proof of merit lies in the evidence. Convincing evidence in Maysville. It is not the testimony of strangers. But the endorsement of Maysville people. That's the kind of proof given here—

The statement of a Maysville citizen. William H. Paul, 333 East Third street, Maysville, Ky., says:

"For two years I had pains in my back and other troubles, caused by disordered kidneys. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I began their use and they soon brought relief. I cheerfully recommend this remedy as one that lives up to the claims made for it."

The above statement was given on December 13th, 1904, and on February 6th, 1905, Mr. Paul said:

"My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills has not changed since I first recommended them. My cure has been permanent and I am now in good health."

A New Resolution

A New Year is now dawning and with it comes the accustomed new resolutions. Now, one of the most important things to "swear off" is using antiquated means of lighting and use electricity, which is the only safe, sane and sanitary light. Make the resolution, tell us about it and we will do the rest.

Tobacco!

Never before brought as high prices on the loose leaf market as it is this year bringing through our houses.

We will handle it carefully and make it bring you the top of the market, and advise you to sell while the prices are good.

Bring it in this week. Don't let the boat leave you. You can get a good price and now is the time to sell.
